TESTIMONIALS

We just want you to know that we heard back from the client today and they are happy with language quality lately.

They are also happy with the queries you have been flagging, especially regarding source issues.

Just sharing this good feedback with you – thank you for the good work!

- Translations.com

This e-mail is just to notify you that your work for this project received a 100% pass on our LQA (Language Quality Assurance).

Thank you so much and keep up the great work!

- ULG

The translation quality is excellent. The meaning is accurately conveyed, and the style is fluent. No error is found. Kudos to the translator. Please keep up the great work.

- Moravia

I would like to pass on the feedback from the client. The reviewers have approved the translations of the cobas pro UI and User Guide without a single change. The client's main contact is very pleased with the smooth approach and great-quality translation.

Thank you very much for all your efforts with these projects and for delivering excellent work!

Every cloud has a silver lining

Layoffs by well-known large companies around the world have occurred one after another throughout 2023, and the economic downturn has spread to multiple industries. Large companies have been trying to cut costs and increase efficiency, and the cost pressure has transferred from end clients to the suppliers. At the same time, due to inflation, the cost of living has soared, and labor costs have also risen. As a supplier, iLen is under double pressure from clients and employees. In the face of increasingly fierce low-price competition, what should we do? Our answer is to always provide high-quality services and always regard talent as ILEN's most valuable asset.

As we all know, with the rising popularity of machine translation and AI, the risk of basic service providers being replaced is getting higher and higher. The only way to cope with the risk of being eliminated from the market is to focus on providing high-quality services and continuing to invest in our employees' skills. ILEN's goal has never been to maximize scale and profits. We are dedicated to serving clients who expect high quality. Our official website has recently posted an introduction to our transcreation service, so please contact us if you want to learn more.

The bells of Christmas are about to ring, and the Year of the Dragon is approaching. In traditional Chinese culture, the dragon is regarded as a sacred animal with strong vitality. The Year of the Dragon is also regarded as an auspicious year, symbolizing prosperity and good luck. We believe that the clouds will clear and the moon will shine in 2024. We want to wish everyone Merry Christmas, and we hope that the Year of the Dragon is a prosperous one for all our clients and friends!
